treatment are extremely important, both to the consumer and to the animals involved. I support the nev

✓ pasturing requirements that give dairy cows freedom to live their lives as naturally as possible. When I

I purchase organic products, I expect that the term "organic" includes the fact that the animals will be tre ated in a humane manner in accordance with their lifestyle needs. I strongly support the new recommen ndations developed by the National Organic Standards Board and urge their adoption. These standards

; will establish true pasturing standards for the USDA National Organic Program
